

Home

The Society for the Study of Gambling was formed in 1977 to provide a forum for those concerned with research into gambling, to promote its scientific study especially as far as the psychological, legal, social and economic aspects are concerned, and to inform and educate the public about these matters.

The Society holds two meetings a year which have, so far, always taken place in London. Meetings are held under The Chatham House Rule . These meetings cover a wide range of topics reflecting current issues concerning legislation and the new Gambling Act, regulation, technology both on and off-line, research and statistics, probity and social responsibility, and aspects of gambling activity as they relate to all sectors of the gambling field.

The 2010 meetings of the Society are confirmed as:Friday 7th May 2010

Click here to see details and programme

or

click here for the Booking form

Thursday 4th November 2010

The programmes will be posted to this website approximately 6 weeks before the date of each meeting and is available.

The Society for the Study of Gambling accepts no responsibility for liability or loss arising from the use of information on the website. Any external links show no prejudice for the organisation or company to which it is linked. Links are there only to facilitate ease of navigation. You may wish to read our privacy policy with regard to how we may use your information when you contact us.